Dear Parents

We are delighted to announce a new initiative being launched at our school - "King David Family Education". We would like to introduce Rabbi Samuel and Gila Ross who are joining us as our in-house "Family Educators". Their role is to help strengthen the bridge between the classroom and the home.

For the past few years, SEED UK have successfully partnered with many Jewish schools in London to offer a special program for parents. We are delighted that SEED have offered to partner with us at King David Primary School.

Rabbi Samuel and Gila come to us with many years of experience of working with children and young families – details of their vast experience are attached. They plan to provide opportunities for parents to engage in informal events, talks and activities, catering to all levels of Jewish knowledge and practice from beginner to advanced in a friendly non-judgemental environment. Programmes will include activities where children and parents can work together. They also hope to offer courses to supplement parents' Jewish knowledge which in turn will help parents support their children's learning. This could include Hebrew Reading Crash Courses and sessions on making the festivals fun and meaningful. They are open to new ideas and are willing to run courses according to your suggestions.

Over the next couple of weeks, Rabbi Samuel and Gila will be introducing themselves to each class from nursery up to year 6. Following this they are planning to run a special pre Chanukah launch event for parents and children – details of which will follow shortly.

We look forward to working closely with Rabbi Samuel and Gila and we are sure they will bring an uplifting experience to our school.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. Rosenberg
